THE NEXT CONGRESS.

Latest Returns Give Republicans 248 Members.

THERE WILL BE NINE POPULISTS.

Congressman Springer Defeated by Nearly Three Thousand Votes—Official Returns Show the Election of One Democrat from Illinois—Texas Safe for the Democrats.

The latest reliable returns show that the Fifty-fourth congress will contain not less than 248 Republican members of the house of representatives, leaving 98 to the Democrats and 9 to the Populists. The Republican congressional committee claim 259 Republicans, but the claim is not based upon returns that are convincing.

SIX NEW SENATORS.

They May Take Part in the Organization at the Next Session.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—A point that has been overlooked in computing the political complexion of the next senate is the admission of Utah with two United States senators. The act of the last session of congress admitting Utah provides that in March, 1895, the constitutional convention shall be held. If the constitution is ratified at the special election in November the legislature will immediately meet and elect two United States senators. As there is about a month from the time the election is held until the Fifty-fourth congress meets there will be ample time to have all the formalities complied with and Utah proclaimed a state in time for its senators and representatives to participate in the organization of the next congress. This would make in all ninety senators, and as the next senate now stands the politics of the United States senators would cut an important figure.

Another probability is the admission of both New Mexico and Arizona, which may be accomplished in time for four more senators to participate in the organization of the next senate. Bills have already passed the house for admission of both territories. The senate committees on territories has reported them favorably to the senate and they are now on the calendar. Senators of both parties have been urging their passage, and it is more than likely that neither party would oppose them because of the effect it would have upon the elections. It is, therefore, quite likely that the battle for the control of the senate will yet be fought out in Utah, New Mexico and Arizon this year. The admission of these new states would make a total of ninty-four senators, and any party to control would need forty-eight for a majority. With the vice president, the Democrats could control the senate with forty-seven senators.

Culberson Wins by Forty Thousand.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 10.—Not more than one-third of the vote of the state has been reported officially, but enough is known to predict the success of Culberson, dem., for governor by about 40,000 plurality. The Democrats certainly elect congressmen from eight of the thirteen districts, namely: District No. 1, Hutchinson, 4,000 plurality; 2, Cooper, 3,000; 3, Yoakum, 1,500; 4, Culberson, 2,000; 5, Bailey, 8,000; 9, Sayres, 1,500; 10, Crowley, 1,000; 11, Crain, 1,000. In the Twelfth district Nooman, rep., has from 1,500 to 2,000 plurality. In the Thirteenth Gilliland, pop., is probably elected. In the Sixth district the official returns will be necessary to determine between Abbott, dem., and Kearby, pop. The same is true of Pendleton, dem., and Barber, pop., in the Seventh, and Bell, dem., and Jenkins, pop., in the eighth. The chances slightly favor the Democrats in all three districts.

California Again in Doubt.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The election of Budd, dem., candidate for governor, is not so certain as it at first seemed. His lead over Estee, rep., has been steadily decreasing as the returns come in, and he is now only 1,094 ahead of the Republican candidate. There are still 323 precincts to hear from, and if Estee's gain continues in the same ratio as they did yesterday he may yet beat Budd. The Republican state committee claims Estee's election by several hundred plurality.

Virginia Election Contests.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 10.—Ex-Congressman Edmund Waddill, who is the acknowledged Republican leader in this district, said today that he thought that Boreland, rep., would contest the election of Tyler, dem., in the Second district, and Thorp, rep., would contest the election of McKenney, dem., in the Fourth district. He had already been consulted as counsel with reference to making these contests.

Springer Badly Defeated.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Nov. 10.—The official vote for congressmen in the Thirteenth Illinois district shows a plurality for Connelly, rep., over Springer, dem., of 2,938. Official returns received at the secretary of state's office from the Sixteenth district show that Finis E. Downing, dem., is elected over John I. Rinnaker, rep., by 69 votes.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

General Confidence for the Future Among Merchants and Manufacturers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Business has been wasting the greater part of the past week, and the elections are expected to give it a sharp stimulus. Whether men are right or wrong in expecting better things, the fact that they expect them does tend to make things better.

In the speculative markets there has been scarcely any movement and nothing favorable to holders. Wheat is two cents higher, but with receipts of only 3,845,032 bushels against 6,598,477 the same week last year there is little encouragement, because stocks in sight are far beyond all previous records. Corn has fallen about two cents and cotton has declined an eighth to 5¾ cents, which is again the lowest price ever recorded. The output of pig iron was larger by 7,731 tons Nov. 1, when it was 158,886 tons weekly, than it was Oct. 1, and larger than a year ago, but it is still about 13 per cent. below the output of last May, before the great depression began. It is noted that nearly all the furnaces in the region depending on Connellsville coke and lake ore are now in operation. Some of the wire rod mills have closed for lack of orders, and a few of the large steel making concerns have reduced hours of work. At the same time there is a decided improvement in the tone of the market, and a general confidence that the business will now improve.

The failures for the week were 261 in the United States, against 258 for the same week last year, and forty-two in Canada against thirty-seven last year. There have been a few failures of consequence during the week, but none of extensive influence.

Bradstreets says: Interests in the elections this week naturally tended to restrict the volume of trade, particularly south, where it interfered with mercantile collections. But within a few days the influence of more seasonable weather west and northwest have increased the confidence of many merchants and manufacturers.

Knights Gathering at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—A number of delegates to the national Knights of Labor convention, which meets here next Tuesday, have arrived. Among them are Grand Master Workman Sovereign, Secretary Hayes, and T. B. McGuire. The usual executive meeting is now being held in advance of the convention to anticipate such business as will probably come before the convention. Mr. Sovereign said beyond a few meetings of advance committees, whose sessions will be private, no business will be transacted until Tuesday.

Turkey Objects to Our Parades.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The board of police commissioners yesterday received a letter from the Turkish consul general at Ottawa, Canada, asking that the board in future refuse to grant permission to Armenians to parade the streets of this city. It is claimed that accounts of these parades are forwarded to Turkey and used to advance the revolutionary cause, thereby endangering the pacific relations existing between Turkey and the United States. The request was filed without consideration.

May Prove to be a Murder.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 10. — Thomas Breninger, section foreman of the Reading road, had in the gang under his charge an Italian named Dingo. This man was not doing his work properly, and Breninger took the shovel out of his hand to instruct him. This made Dingo mad, and he sneaked up behind the foreman and dealt him a terrible blow on the head with a hammer used in driving spikes. Breninger's skull was split, and he is not expected to live. Dingo is in jail.

Anarchy's Memorial Day.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Tomorrow is the seventh anniversary of the hanging of the Haymarket riot anarchists, and, as has been the custom of the anarchists of this city, they will march to the graves of Spies, Parsons, Lingg, Engel and Fisher at Waldheim cemetery, where the living anarchists will praise their dead comrades. It is expected that Herr Most will be in the city and take part in the ceremony.

THE WAR AGAINST CHINA.

Chinese Officials Callous as to the Fate of the Empire.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—A dispatch from Chefoo says it is reported there that fighting occurred on Nov. 4, 5 and 6, at Talien Wan, but that it has not been decisive.

A Tientsin dispatch says that the responsible Chinese officials appear to be callous as to the fate of the empire. They attend chiefly to their personal interests, such as contracts for furnishing arms, etc. The people are also indifferent. In the vicinity of Moukden they suffer more from fear of the Chinese soldiers than from fear of the enemy. The dispatch adds that the Russian officers on the station have been instructed to conciliate their British colleagues.

A dispatch from Shanghai states that the Chinese men-of-war remaining outside of Port Arthur have been ordered to attack the Japanese fleet that is blockading that port and preventing the egress of a number of Chinese warships now lying there.

A Berlin dispatch says that the German admiralty has telegraphed to the admiral commanding the German squadron on the Chinese station to obey the orders of the British admiral in certain possible eventualities.

A dispatch from Paris says that France seems disposed to entertain the idea of a European conference on the Chinese-Japanese war. Another Paris dispatch says that a paper in that city declares that Lord Roseberry, the British prime minister, intends to propose a collective landing of troops in China.

Further bodies of Japanese troops have been landed on the coast to the southward of Seoul. Their object is the subjection of the Tonghaks, who are very troublesome.

A BIG BUILDING'S COLLAPSE.

It Results in Two Deaths and Fatal Injuries to Another.

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—Late yesterday afternoon the top floor of the new and magnificent offices of the City Passenger railway, on the corner of Place d'Armes Hill and Craig street, caved in, killing two men instantly, injuring one fatally and maiming a dozen others. The accident was caused by frost, which made the heavy iron girders leave their sockets, and which, crashing down, carried with them everything below. There were at the time about fifty workmen in the building, and many were the miraculobs escapes from death.

The dead are Joseph Marquis and Robert Pauze, both French Canadians. Pierre Monette, whose injuries will prove fatal, had his skull crushed and bones fractured in many places.

While the men were working on the different floors of the building there suddenly came a deafening crash, when down came iron beams, planking, bricks, lath and mortar in a heap. As soon as the terrible calamity dawned on the people an alarm was sounded and the fire and patrol departments responded immediately with ambulances. A ringing cheer went up when the firemen mounted the extension ladder and reached the sixth story. There, in a window sill, clinging with desperate energy, was Francis Houle a bricklayer, who was about exhausted. He was rescued after some difficulty.

Besides the dead and the man Monette, who is dying, a dozen others were seriously wounded.

Rumored Death of Dr. Hirsch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 10.—It is rumored that Privy Councillor Dr. Hirsch, the late czar's body physician, has died suddenly. Dr. Hirsch was spending a vacation at Meran when Czar Alexander's illness became alarming, and he was at once summoned to Livadia to attend his majesty. He remained with his majesty until the end. The funeral of Emperor Alexander has now been fixed to take place on Saturday, Nov. 17. Court mourning in varying degrees has been decreed for a year.

Murder in the First Degree.

WOODLAND, Cal., Nov. 10. — Salem G. Woorden, one of the several American Railway Union members charged with wrecking a Southern Pacific train during the strike in July last, causing the death of Engineer Marks and four United States soldiers, was yesterday convicted of murder in the first degree. The penalty is death or life imprisonment. The other accused train wreckers will be promptly tried.

On a Murderous Crusade.

DURANGO, Colo., Nov. 10.—Jesse Haller, who killed Frank Carpenter near Cortez last Spring, has again started out avowing an intention to kill the entire Carpenter family. He met a brother of Carpenter and a man named Dale, witness of the former shooting, and opened fire, killing Carpenter and dangerously wounding Dale. A posse is in pursuit of Haller.

A Priest Becomes Insane.

OMAHA, Nov. 10.—Father Schroffle, a well known Omaha priest, became violently insane at his room at the Millard House. He had a revolver, and declared he was the emperor of Germany, and would kill any one who approached him unless of equal social rank. The police are unable to solve the question of securing the maniac.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely medicine; a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Sold by J. E. Mills, Middletown, N. Y.

THE ST. LOUIS LAUNCH.

All Arrangements Perfected for the Great Event.

MRS. CLEVELAND WILL CHRISTEN.

The First Modern Ocean Passenger Vessel Ever Built in This Country—Over a Tenth of a Mile in Length and the Largest Ever Built by Cramps.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—All arrangements have been completed at Cramps' ship yard for the launching of the American line steamship St. Louis on Monday next. This event has attracted more attention than any similar affair in recent years, because the St. Louis is the first modern ocean passenger vessel built in this country, and the preparations have been necessarily on a larger scale than usual. Mrs. Cleveland is to christen the ship, and she will be accompanied from Washington by a distinguished party, including all the members of the cabinet and their wives. The Washington guests will travel in a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad, which will be run direct to the ship yard.

The St. Louis is 120 feet longer than any ship ever launched from Cramps before, and the question of getting her safely into the water has been a serious one. The Delaware river opposite the yard is narrow, and it has been necessary to dig away many thousand feet of mud in order to give her sufficient room.

The most serious problem of all that had to be overcome, however, was the danger that might arise from the action of the tide after her stern struck the water. The ship is 556 feet long, more than a tenth of a mile, and when her stern is in the middle of the channel, about 100 feet of her bow will still be on the ways, and if there is any tide at all there is danger of the great hull being twisted. To guard against such an accident careful tidal observations have been made daily during the past two weeks, and Lieutenant Nixon, who will have charge of the launching, expressed himself today as being confident that no accident will befall the ship. Two heavy drag anchors will be attached to her bow and other arrangements have been made to check her speed. Several heavy hawsers will be attached to her bow which will break at intervals of about forty feet.

The launching stand from which Mrs. Cleveland will break the traditional bottle of champagne on the point of the steel bow as it glides past her, is built to accommodate 100 people. On this will be the Washington guests and the officers and principal stockholders of the Cramp Ship Building company and the International Navigation company. Four immense stands to accommodate other invited guests have also been erected. Early in the day the gates of the yard will be thrown open to the general public.

The tide will be at its height at 12:30 p. m. on Monday, and the launching will take place between that hour and 1:30 p. m.

AGAIN THE COOK GANG.

Two of Their Number Hold Up the Town of Lenapah, I. T.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Nov. 10.—Two of the Cook gang plundered the town of Lenapah, I. T., and left a trail of blood behind them yesterday afternoon. They entered the town in the character of bold bandits, without any attempt at concealment, and terrorized the citizens until they had carried out their plans of robbery. E. E. Melton, a brave young man who attempted to stay them with his gun when they were riding away, was shot down and instantly killed. Another man whose name is not known is reported to have been seriously wounded.

Both of the victims were with a small force of citizens, who hastily armed themselves attempted to prevent the escape of the bandits. The robbers were mounted on fast horses, and were heavily armed. Some of the citizens claim to have recognized them as Cherokee Bill and Jim French, well known lieutenants of Bill Cook, the leader of the gang.

The robbers held up the proprietors of the two stores here and looted both places. They also robbed the postoffice. John Shufelt, the proprietor of one store, was relieved of $100 in money and a gold watch. These articles were taken from his person.

A report says the bandits are headed for Coffeyville, which is only fifteen miles from Lenapah. This place is the scene of many tragic robbers, and the police department, with volunteers, are prepared to meet the robbers in the same way they met the Daltons two years ago, when almost the whole band was wiped out.

Stricken with Paralysis.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 10.—Frederick W. Ricord, ex-mayor of Newark, and now librarian of the New Jersey Historical society was stricken with paralysis in the rooms of the society yesterday afternoon, and is now in a critical condition. Mr. Ricord is 75 years of age. He was educated at Princeton college, and afterwards became its librarian. Later he was elected state superintendent of public schools and in 1865 was chosen sheriff of Essex county. He was elected mayor of Newark in 1869 and re-elected two years later, serving four years. At the end of his term he was appointed law judge in Essex county.

Mr. Hand's Colic Cure in Hudson.

HUDSON, N. Y., Sept. 28, 1893.

I bought a bottle of Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and found it so good for my baby, who was suffering from colic so that I could not get a moment's rest night or day. I now take pleasure in writing this so that every mother can know about it, for I hope that Dr. Hand's medicines will find their way into every family in the land.—Mrs. Oscar Shook, 48 Chapel street. Dr. Hand's Colic Cure is sold by all druggists for 25c.

SAVED FROM LYNCHERS.

Narrow Escape of a Brute Who Confesses Terrible Crimes.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 10.—N. J. Villars was brought to the Cass county jail yesterday by Sheriff Eddy, of Stutsman county. The sheriff left Jamestown with his prisoner just in advance of a mob which was on its way to take him from jail and lynch him. Villars confessed to the horrible crime with which he is charged. Tuesday evening he went to the farm of Mrs. Fromer, in Montpelier township, Stutsman county. Mrs Fromer saw him at the barn and went out. When she approached Villars knocked her down with a club and beat her into insensibility. He dragged her into the barn and assaulted her, then threw her into the well in the barn, set the barn on fire and left.

The barn burned to the ground, but Mrs. Fromer escaped death in the well. Toward morning she managed to climb out of the well and got to the house. Taking her children with her, she crawled on her hands and knees to a neighbor's, two miles away, and died after telling her story.

Villars was captured at Valley City and taken to Jamestown by Sheriff Strenshoel.

He is one of the oldest farmers in Stutsman county, and has a highly respectable family. A large mob gathered at Montpelier and started for Jamestown to lynch him, but Sheriff Eddy heard of their coming in time to escape. Villars then confessed another crime. A month ago Mrs. Fromer's husband disappeared mysteriously. Villars says he killed Fromer and that his body will be found buried in a pile of manure back of the barn.

TERRIBLE DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Three Workmen Killed, Their Bodies Being Terribly Mangled.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Nov. 10.—A frightful explosion occurred here yesterday and resulted in the death of three men and the injury of many more. The dead are: John Hartman, Norton Keefer and John Flynn, all married.

The explosion occurred at Flint creek sewer, which crosses the entire city from northeast to southwest. Probably 100 men were in and around the ditch on First street. Some of them had built a fire on the bank and were thawing out a fifty pound box of dynamite. There was a thunderous crash, and the entire city was shaken. Keefer, Hartman and Flynn were nearest the fire.

Hartman was literally torn to pieces. His body was lifted in the air three hundred feet and fell on Market street sidewalk, a square away. His legs were blown off near the hips, both arms torn off, his head half torn away, and his body completely disembowled. One of Hartman's feet was shot through the weather boarding of Frank Windle's residence. Keefer was killed outright. His body dropped into the sewer. After he was taken out he recovered consciousness for a moment, but died on his way home in the ambulance. Flynn's legs were both broken, his arms broken in several places, and head crushed. He lived several hours.

Another Bond Issue.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—After the close of business yesterday it was announced that the government would at once ask bankers for a loan of another $50,000,000. Gold bonds for that amount, bearing 5 per cent. interest, will be issued within a few days, at a price which will net investors about 3 per cent. annually. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis has been in this city for several days, and has had conferences with the presidents of national banks and trust companies. One of these bank presidents said: "Yes, there will be an issue of bonds shortly, probably within a week or two. It has not yet been decided whether a syndicate will be formed to take these bonds or not."

Fooling the Customs Officers.

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The whisky smugglers of the Lower St. Lawrence adopt tactics in their line of business which seem to be eminently successful in fooling the customs officers and the revenue cruiser Constance. Two days ago the schooner Marie Louisnana, was seized on the information of the customs officer at Points Esquimaux and towed to Quebec where nothing contraband was found aboard. It now transpires the smugglers themselves gave the officer the tip and the result was a seizure and the departure of the revenue cruiser with her in tow. In the meantime the smugglers successfully landed a contraband cargo of liquors not far from Quebec.

Bank Burglars Get Little Booty.

OBERLIN, O., Nov. 10.—Robbers broke into the First National bank here during the night and got away with about $500 in silver. The front doors were opened by the use of crowbars and the locks of the vault were blown off with dynamite. The thieves then stole two rigs to make their escape sure. One of the rigs was found at Elyria. A safe which contained $25,000 was not touched.

MAJOR GENERAL M'COOK

Elevated to the Position Vacated by Howard's Retirement.

COLONEL FORSYTH A BRIGADIER.

General McCook's Promotion Came Just in Time to Save Him from Retirement as a Brigadier General—But a Few Months More to Serve.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Brigadier General Alexander McDowell McCook has been appointed major general of the United States army, vice General Howard, retired, and Colonel James W. Forsyth, of the Seventh cavalry, has been promoted to brigadier general to succeed McCook.

The place vacated by General Howard's retirement was between McCook and General Ruger, the latter commanding the department of California, and the former was peculiarly fortunate in receiving the appointment over General Ruger, who stands at the head of the list of brigadier generals, because he would otherwise retire in a few months with the rank of brigadier general. As it is, General Ruger's promotion will probably only be delayed for that length of time.

GENERAL M'COOK.

Colonel James W. Forsyth, who became a brigadier general, is a veteran of the late war.

Brigadier General McCook, who becomes a major general, is at present in command of the department of Colorado, has been forty-seven years in the military service, and is one of that famous family of warriors known as "the fighting McCooks." He is a graduate of the academy at West Point, which he entered as a cadet in 1847. He was a captain in the regular army at the outbreak of the war, from which he emerged with the rank of lieutenant colonel. But in addition to this he had at the beginning a volunteer commission as colonel of the First Ohio infantry, and in one year received his volunteer commission as a major general. For gallant service during the war he was brevetted a major general in the regular army in 1865, thus anticipating by two years the good fortune which has fallen to him in this appointment.

The Phonograph as a Teacher.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Chicago clergymen have formed a polyglot club for the purpose of instructing prospective missionaries in the various foreign languages by means of the phonograph. President Harper, of Chicago university, with other prominent ministers, have secured as members of the organization representatives of almost every nationality visited by missionaries, and by the reproduction of conversation the phonograph will take the place of instructors and professors. The first machine used by the club will be placed in the Young Men's Christian association, and others will be distributed among prominent churches.

Convicted for Libel in the Mails.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 10.—W. J. Cornell, the young Englishman of El Cajo Canon, whose baby farming methods were recently exposed by an officer of the Denver society for the prevention of cruelty to children, and who was charged with the fraudulent use of the United States mails, was convicted by a jury in the United States district court. Cornell used the mails in attempts to blackmail persons whose children he had proposed to exclude from the society.

Tried to Tear Out His Tongue.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 10.—While crazed from the effects of a protracted spree Peter Hepper, a barber, an inmate of the City hospital, grasped his tongue in both hands and tore it partially from his mouth. An attendant discovered the suffering man, who was still tugging away at his tongue. All efforts of the hospital surgeon to save the man's life were unavailing, and he died in intense agony.

Embezzling Treasurer Sentenced.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 10.—Andrew Hoey, a venerable looking man, was sentenced by Judge Vroom, in the Camden criminal court, to two years' imprisonment at hard labor for embezzling the funds of a secret society of which he was treasurer. Hoey said he had taken the money to support himself while out of work, intending to replace it as soon as he obtained employment.

Relief In One Day.

Mills, Druggist, Middletown, N. Y.

Testimony of a Nurse and Midwife.

PAVILION, N. Y., May 21, 1885.—"I have had great experience as a nurse and midwife for the last five or six years, and I have never found anything so good as Gilmore's Aromatic Wine; have found it excellent for young ladies arriving at maturity, and also for ladies in the decline or change of life. I recommend it to the afflicted."

ON CRANBERRY BOGS.

THE FRUIT THAT MAKES THE TURKEY RELISH NOW BEING PICKED.

Modern Methods of Cranberry Culture Discovered by Accident—The Queen of the Bog Flourishes In Jersey—Students Gather Berries "on the Cape."

It is an evidence of the kindness of Dame Nature to her children that the cranberry will grow in almost every part of the world. It is an evidence of human stupidity that it is cultivated in comparatively few regions. It should be a matter of pride on the part of Americans that more cranberries are grown in the United States than in any other country. Americans may also be proud that the use of cranberry sauce as an adjunct to the meat of the turkey is a culinary custom of distinctly American origin

GAMBLING IS A PASSION

The common cranberry plant is found everywhere in the marshes of northern and central Europe, of northern Asia, of North America, of Australia and Tasmania and the southern part of South America—in other words, in the temperate zones everywhere unless it be in South Africa. But the cranberry that you will eat on your Thanksgiving turkey, reader, known to botanists as Oxycoccus macrocarpus, is found in the United States only and is confessedly superior to the Oxycoccus palustris that grows in old world bogs Cranberry cultivation is carried on more extensively in the marshes of New Jersey, Wisconsin, Connecticut and Cape Cod than anywhere else on the footstool In other countries it is the wild cranberry that is harvested almost exclusively, and even in those American regions where cultivation is most extensive many thousands of bushels of the wild variety are gathered every year.

The evidence as to who first thought of cultivating the cranberry is conflicting. Some say that it was a Cape Codder who had worn himself out as a fisherman before he turned his attention to the improvement of the wild berry as it grew on the Massachusetts marshes early in the present century. Others, and the facts seem to be with these latter, say that it was a man named John Webb who began cranberry cultivation, and that it was in New Jersey At all events, it was he who discovered the best method of cultivation and the quality of soil on which the berry best thrived

Webb went to Ocean county, N. J., from Cape Cod. He had but one leg, and he was poor. For some years after he had changed his place of abode he supported himself by gathering wild cranberries and doing odd jobs for the Ocean county farmers. He must have been an economical chap, for out of his scanty earnings he managed to get together enough savings to buy a bit of cranberry marsh in 1857, where he could gather the fruit undisturbed Shortly afterward Webb noticed that wherever there was a mixture of sand and the black mold of the marsh the berries grew more plentifully, were of better flavor and were larger than where the soil was solely sand or solely mold. Then he began to try certain experiments — experiments that made his neighbors laugh and shake their heads and declare he was out of his mind. But Webb kept right on. Like enough he suspected he had stumbled on the elusive something he had been looking for all his life that was to make him a success. So he extracted the pine and cedar stumps from his bit of marsh, leveled its surface and spread three inches of sand over all. Then he drained it by digging a series of ditches that divided it into rectangles. Three years later he had such a crop of cranberries as had never been heard of before, either in New Jersey or Cape Cod, and his neighbors suddenly perceived that instead of being daft, as they had suspected, he was a man of extreme good sense. Then they hastened to follow his example as fast as they could. They spread his fame abroad, and the Webb method of cranberry culture came to be known in every part of the land where cranberry bogs exist. In a few years he became rich, and so did some of those neighbors who had once declared that he was only a harmless lunatic

QUEEN OF THE BOG

Before Webb's discovery Cape Cod furnished many more cranberries than New Jersey, but now the latter state produces about as many as all other cranberry growing sections of the United States combined, fully 6,000 acres of the total of 12,000 acres under cultivation being located in Ocean and adjoining counties. The total American output is about 800,000 bushels, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and Milwaukee being the great markets Some years the export trade in cranberries is very large, the American crop being eagerly bought in England, France and the West Indies England's supply was formerly furnished almost exclusively from the bogs of Lincolnshire and Norfolk, but the fruit there grown is only the common wild cranberry, much inferior to the full, round, juicy American berry. When the English cannot get cranberries from the United States, they have to take up with those from Sweden and Russia.

The cranberry harvest is now on. It furnishes plenty of work to many hands for a brief period every autumn, and a large proportion of the persons so employed are industrious only during the few weeks of the gathering. This circumstance has called into being a more or less distinct class, known as "the cranberry pickers," whose characteristics are very similar to those of "the hop pickers." This class is much more in evidence in the Jersey bogs than on the "cape," where a very considerable portion of the harvesters are 'Cape Cod folks," simple, sincere creatures of old New England stock. In Jersey, however, there are negroes a-plenty from near and far, and of late years there are many Italians With both these classes of pickers gambling is almost a passion, whereas the Cape Codders are steady and sober and devoted to their work. Among the Jersey pickers, too, there is far more of roistering and carousing and fighting, especially on the "wild bogs," where the berries are the property of whoever sizes them first.

Women as well as men pick cranberries on the Jersey and on the cape, but the feminine type known as the queen of the bog flourishes best and possibly only in New Jersey. She is usually a strapping Italian woman, though sometimes a quadroon or mulatto and in one or two instances a full blooded negress. Besides being endowed with a certain rough comeliness she who would rule a bog must be possessed of great physical strength, for there are times when her right to reign will be disputed by force. One such who had tyrannized over a certain New Jersey bog for many years was deposed in 1892 or the year before, but did not give up until half a dozen of the women who had annually picked with her had ducked her and pummeled her within an inch of her life.

It is not easy work to gather cranberries. None but the shortest of mortals can do the work without going on the knees. This is very wearying to those indispensable parts of the human anatomy and very wearing on skirts and trousers. The picker of short stature who stoops at the picking saves the knee weariness and the wear and tear of raiment, but is generally affected with what the Cod pickers call a "crick" and the Jersey pickers a "misery" in the back that more than makes up. Pickers who gather from the "wild" bogs can ordinarily sell their pick for about 50 cents a bushel and can pick from two to four bushels in a day. The latter quantity is exceptional, however. Pickers on cultivated bogs are paid by the measure, receiving a ticket for each measure and "cashing in" at the week's end. The women are not able, as a rule, to pick as many cranberries as the men, owing to their lesser strength; but, especially in Jersey, they are apt to finish the season with more money, because they gamble less and spend less.

It is not at all unusual on the cape for young men and women who are striving to educate themselves to go out on the bogs and earn the money to pay for a term's tuition at the nearest academy, and the presence of such an element in a gang of pickers is likely to lessen the tendency to roughness. On the cape, too, a whole family—father, mother and children—are sometimes to be seen picking side by side.

On most cultivated bogs there is an overseer who follows after the pickers and urges them to hasten in their work, for it is to the interest of the grower to get the crop harvested as early in the season as possible. There is sometimes a good deal of grumbling because of this feature of the cranberry harvest, for the overseer is not always a man of excessively polite language, and it is of record that those who are freest in their talk to the pickers are sometimes soundly thumped therefor.

A well cultivated cranberry bog is about as good looking a crop as can well be found, with its trim rows of vines, and, when the berries are ripe, its glistening red fruit by way of contrast with the green of the leaves. Before the days of cultivation, when the cranberry was itself a weed, it had no enemies in nature, so far as known, but now it is cursed with the "three square grass," the "cranberry bulrush" and the "web worm," all of which are the terror of cranberry growers On the cape "the cranberry poultice" is held to be a sovereign cure for erysipelas, and there are other disorders for which the fruit is considered the best medicine going.

Dear Sir—I think your "Favorite Prescription" was the preservation of my life. I was under the doctor's care for three months with womb disease and a gradual wasting all the time. I was so weak that I could not be raised in bed when I commenced taking the "Prescription," and by the time I had taken three bottles I was up and going wherever I pleased, and have had good health and been very strong ever since. That was four years ago. I have recommended it to a good many of my friends, and they have taken it and are highly pleased

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and is entirely free from every objectionable quality.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but only by the manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

WILL SACRIFICE HER JEWELS.

Mme. Magnusson Seeks to Establish a Training School For Icelandic Girls.

Mme. Segrid Magnusson, an Icelandic lady of high rank, wants to sell her jewels, but not like the good Isabella to discover a new world. She wants to establish a training school for Icelandic girls, and as her jewels are her only great possessions she has come to Boston to sell them. The artists and connoisseurs are astonished at the collection, which is the accumulation of over 1,000 years by one family, and think it well worth the $10,000 she asks for it, as it is probably the only complete collection of family jewels of all ages in the world.

MME. MAGNUSSON.

The Icelanders, as everybody knows, are descendants of people of the higher ranks in Norway who fled from that country to Iceland in the year 874, and the Magnussons are of the purest and oldest stock, the lady tracing her ancestry through an unbroken line of the best for over 1,000 years. She was born and reared in Reykjavik and was never out of the island till after her marriage. Her husband early became noted as a lingnist and was appointed sublibrarian at Cambridge, England, out of 70 applicants because of his proficiency in languages. When she returned to Iceland, Mme. Magnusson resolved to found a school for girls on her own land on the spot where she was born, but in the present stress in the island the needed money could not be raised.

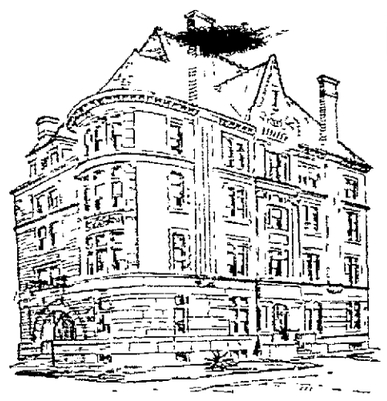

She has been in the country nearly two years and had charge of the Icelandic exhibit at the World's fair, where her collection of jewels was rewarded a medal. The pieces are all of ancient date, the oldest being a necklace of silver gilt bearing a crucifix of hammered work and made very early in the Christian era. There is a belt with silver bosses which bear Masonic emblems, made when Masonry was first known in Iceland. Many ornaments of wrought gold and silver are very old and of great historic interest. Ruskin pronounced it the most unique and interesting collection in the world, and now the lady proposes to sacrifice it in the cause of education.

DONATED BY RUSSELL SAGE.

The Millionaire Gives a Dormitory to the Troy Female Seminary.

Russell Sage has never been suspected of great liberality, and many people were surprised to learn that he has given $150,000 in good cash for a dormitory at the famous old Troy Female seminary. It is generally agreed that this bounty is due to Mrs. Sage, who is not only the first woman trustee of the school, but very nearly the oldest living graduate and president of the Emma Willard association, which is named for the founder of the school. Both of Mr. Sage's wives were graduated there, and in their honor he first gave $100,000, but as that did not complete the dormitory he added $50,000.

Mrs. Emma Hart Willard may well be considered the pioneer in this country in the higher education of women, as she began to teach at the age of 16, and in 1807 at the age of 20, she took charge of an advanced school in Middlebury, Vt., where she married Dr John Willard. How little there was in the so called education for girls in that day may be judged from the fact that as Mrs. Willard advanced her classes she had to study hardy to keep ahead of them. She learned physiology from her husband and geometry from a class book belonging to a student who boarded with the family, studying at night when he was asleep It was a sort of sin in those days, or at any rate bordering on impropriety, for women to study such things, but eager girls crowded to Mrs Willard's schools, and in 1821 she began the famous Troy Female seminary, that city having donated a building.

She continued this school till 1838, when she gave place to her son and his wife. She had meanwhile traveled in Europe, founded a school for girls in Greece and written many instructive works. The popular song, "Rocked In the Cradle of the Deep," was written by her while on the ocean. Born in Berlin, Conn., 1787, she died in Troy, N. Y., in 1870, having educated over 5,000 girls.

The present Mrs. Russell Sage was graduated at Troy 50 years ago, and every year all the alumnæ who can assemble are her guests at a reunion dinner in New York city. Mr. Lewis Gurley of Troy built the Gurley Memorial hall for the school as an honor to Mrs. Willard, and an association of the alumnæ has secured the means for a fine monument of her. The Russell Sage Memorial hall will be dedicated next May.

Sugar Refineries to Reopen.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—It is stated officially that the Franklin sugar refinery will, unless conditions change materially, open next week, and also that the Spreckels' refinery is ready to resume. The former now includes the old Knight refinery, so that the trust will probably have its entire Philadelphia plant in active operation.

To Die by Electricity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Carl Fiegenbaum, aged 53, convicted of the murder of Juliano Hoffman, his boarding mistress, at her home on the night of Sept. 1, was sentenced to death by Recorder Smythe in the court of general sessions. The sentence is to be executed in the week of Dec. 17. Fiegenbaum protested his innocence.

ANOTHER VERDICT FOR DR. KENNEDY.

A Philadelphian Cured of Gravel.

Philadelphia, Pa, Item.

Since the investigations of the claims made for Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy by the press, they have received letters from every State in the Union, and find the remedy fails in few cases.

The opinion of the average physicians has been that kidney and urinary troubles could be cured only by a long and persistent treatment. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy acts quickly, curing obstinate cases in a very short time.

One of our best known citizens, Mr. John J. Neill, of No. 2437 North Eighth street was a sufferer from gravel, in speaking of his case said: "I had a very bad attack of gravel, and Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy taken about one month, completely cured me. I cannot say too much in its favor."

Favorite Remedy is prescribed with unfailing success for all diseases brought about by an excess of uric acid in the blood. In rheumatism, dyspepsia and nerve troubles, it has made many cures that were considered beyond the aid of medicine. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy can be obtained of all druggists at one dollar a bottle, or six bottles for five dollars.

A. E. NICKINSON, BUSINESS MANAGER

SATURDAY, NOV. 10, 1894.

The collapse of Populism in Kansas is said to have convinced Senator Peffer that he has nothing more to hope for from the Populists, and he, therefore, proposes to return to the Republican party, with which he was identified before he embraced Populism. The fruits of victory are sometimes as bitter as defeat.

The decision of the New Jersey Supreme Court that under the constitution of New Jersey, women cannot vote at school elections, is a great disappointment to the women of the State. The court holds that all boards in the election of which women took part are illegal and the decision will result in great confusion and endless complications.

The silver men of Colorado and other mining states are maturing plans to launch a silver party, the platform of which is to be free silver coinage and protection to American industries. The new party is expected to attract the votes of bimetalists in the East and South and accomplish what Populism has failed to do in disrupting the old parties and securing control of the government.

The majority in favor of Greater New York is 37,120. All the localities which it is proposed to include in consolidation gave majorities in favor of it except Westchester county, The majority in favor of consolidation is not great enough to be conclusive and in view of the fact that Brooklyn gave but a bare majority for the scheme it is doubtful if the Greater New York scheme has been helped by submission to popular vote.

The Republican party, having control of the legislative and executive departments of the State government, can do its pleasure in the matter of legislation. Unless it repudiates its record and its pledges it must enact some form of a high license law. It is also committed to the Australian ballot system and the measure will be so framed as to disfranchise as many voters as possible. Senator Lexow, although he has declined to discuss details until they have been agreed on after consultation with Republican leaders, has declared that there will be much legislation in regard to New York city. It is safe to say that this legislation will take the form of office grabbing,—turning Democrats out and putting Republicans in.

Washington despatches announce that the administration has decided to issue bonds, under the law of 1875, to restore the gold reserve and to so fortify the Treasury that it will have cash sufficient for all demands upon it until such time as the new tariff begins to yield revenue sufficient for the needs of the Government. The gold reserve is now down to about $60,000,000 and $40,000,000 of bonds will be necessary to restore the reserve to the $100,000,000 mark and probably $20,000,000 will be needed for Treasury uses. The new bonds will be of the five per cent. series, of which there was an issue of $50,000,000 in February. The bonds will be sold on a three per cent basis at an upset price of 117.223. They will be redeemable at the pleasure of the Government, after a period of ten years.

The proposed bond issue meets with the hearty approval of financiers, bankers and business men and of all who are interested in the maintenance of our national credit. The Government currency,—greenbacks, silver certificates, standard dollars convertible into certificates and Treasury notes, must be kept at par with gold or the result will be business disaster and panic, and the only assurance of the Government's ability to redeem its pledges that the people of this and other countries will accept is enough gold in the Treasury reserve to insure ability to meet, on demand, all Government obligations that may be presented.

THE CZAR'S FUNERAL TRAIN.

Its Arrival at Kharkoff—Requiem Services at Several Stopping Places.

BY UNITED PRESS.

ST PETERSBURG, Nov. 10 — The funeral train of the late Czar arrived at Kharkoff, to-day, after stopping at several places, including the memorial church, near Borki, where the late Czar narrowly escaped death in a railroad disaster. At all the places a halt was made long enough to hold requiem services.

Moscow, Nov. 10 —The city has been generally covered with emblems of mourning. The imperial convoy is in readiness at Kharkoff to accompany the body to St. Petersburg. The progress of the funeral train is very impressive, the people along the route turning out en masse to do honor to the memory of the dead Czar.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS IN SULLIVAN COUNTY ARE DOING.

All the News from All Parts of the County—Many Matters of Interest Condensed from our Sullivan Exchanges and Contributed by Wide-Awake Correspondents.

—The temperance people of this county are talking of publishing a paper.

—The people of Liberty are agitating the matter of providing that village with a system of sewers.

—There was snow enough in Liberty, Thursday afternoon, for fairly good sleighing.

—Philip Bietz, of Jeffersonville, has bought the saloon of John Leonard at Mongaup Valley.

—Howard Lewis has just completed a boarding house, north of Liberty, that has accommodations for about thirty guests.

—Twelve persons were received into the Liberty Methodist Church, last Sunday, making a total of sixty who have joined the church in the past eighteen months.

—The O. and W. has ordered the shed in front of Wilkinson's store, in Hurleyville, torn down at once. This structure has been the means of more than one accident in Hurleyville, as it hides any approaching trains.

—The Callicoon Democrat says: Hay being scarce and high in this locality cows are consequently low in price,—good animals ranging from $10 to $15.

—Invitations have been issued by W. W. Terns for the marriage of his daughter, Miss Ella A., to Dr. R. H. Hansee, of this village. The ceremony will be performed at the Methodist Church, Monticello, Wednesday, Nov. 14th, at 3 o'clock.—Watchman.

—The town board of Callicoon has voted to deny the application of certain citizens of Jeffersonville for permission to incorporate as a water company to supply that village with water. The petition was opposed by Charles Scheidell on the ground that the water from the group of springs which the company proposed to use was needed for his creamery. It is now believed that those interested in the water company will compromise with Mr, Scheidell.

LIVE LOCAL TOPICS.

—The country roads are deep with mud as a result of the recent snow falls.

—Temperance meeting, to-night, at 8 o'clock, in Free Christian Church.

—"Clinkers in his brain works" is the latest way of saying that a man is "luney."

—The army of tramps is moving eastward. Twelve were given lodgings in the lockup, last night.

—The Walden Knife Company is building an addition to its factory, in which it will manufacture a patent self-opening knife.

—Jakie Newman's night lunch wagon is in running order, and is patronized by all the hungry who like to take their meals a la carte.

—Archbishop Corrigan will administer the sacrament of confirmation to a class of 150, at St. Mary's Church, Newburgh, Monday.

—Twenty-eight persons were received into full membership in the Walden Methodist Church, last Sunday.

—The snow has melted rapidly, today, and every one has been glad to see it go. It's time enough for winter to begin in December.

—The Avis Basket Company, of Oxford, which employed 100 hands, has made an assignment. There is little likelihood that the concern will resume business.

—The unused plant of the Ithaca glass company was destroyed by fire, Wednesday. The burned buildings cost $6,000. The property was uninsured.

—Erie train 2 struck an unknown man who was walking on the track, at Wellsburg, yesterday morning, breaking both of his legs and one of his arms. His injuries are believed to be fatal.

—The Brotherwood Wine Company, of Washingtonville, heretofore conducted by J. M. Emerson & Sons, has been incorporated. J. M. Emerson is President.

—Last night's light snow clung to every branch and twig as it fell, and the effect, this morning, was very beautiful. It's too early in the season, however, for that kind of beauty.

—The plan for starting up the Honesdale glass works has fallen through. The New York man who was engineering the deal demanded a gift of one-fourth of the plant for his services and influence, and the owners of the property refusing to assent to this the deal was called off.

—Fifty members of Hoffman Lodge have signified their intention of going to Ellenville, Wednesday evening, 14th, to pay a fraternal visit to Wawarsing Lodge. Any others who intend going should notify the secretary of the lodge before 9 o'clock, Monday, that proper preparations may be made.

PASTOR BEATTIE SURPRISED.

Members of His Church Celebrate the Thirtieth Anniversary of His Pastorate.

Rev. Dr. Beattie, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, was given a surprise, last evening, when about eighty present and former members of the church marched into the parsonage. The visit was in honor of the completion of Dr. Beattie's thirty years' pastorate of the church.

The surprise was planned by some of the older members of the church, and those who were members when Dr. Beattie became the pastor and their descendants, the elders of the church, superintendent and ex-superintendents of the Sunday School, were invited, as were also Rev. Luther Littell, of Mount Hope, and Rev. Mr. Hepburn, of Campbell Hall, who are the only ministers living who were present at Dr. Beattie's ordination and installation thirty years ago. Rev. Mr. Littell was present, but Rev. Mr. Hepburn was unable to attend the gathering.

The visitors brought with them baskets of provisions, and soon after their arrival the ladies set about preparing supper.

At the conclusion of the repast Dr. Beattie made a brief address, in which he expressed his pleasure at the unexpected visit and indulged in some reminiscenses of the church's history during his thirty years' pastorate.

He then called upon Mr. John H. Millspaugh, who was elected an elder at the time the church was organized.

Mr. Millspaugh was followed by Mr T. B. Scott, of Poughkeepsie, who was superintendent of the Sunday School when Dr. Beattie became the pastor.

Rev. Luther Littell then spoke, and was followed by Recorder J. F. Bradner, who was a member of the infant class in Sunday School at the time Mr. Beattie entered upon his charge.

The speeches were all of a congratulatory character, and were doubtless very gratifying to Dr. Beattie.

CASES FOR THE GRAND JURY.

Offenders Now Under Arrest, Who will Probably Be Indicted.

The Grand Jury, which will sit at Newburgh, next week, will investigate the charges against the following persons, now under arrest:

Charles L. Giles, of the town of Crawford, committed for an indecent assault on Rosa R. Mance, a fourteen-year-old girl.

John Freeman, held on a charge of assault in the first degree.

John J. Tice, of Newburgh, held for grand larceny on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon.

John Tetten, charged with assault.

Charles Hees, held by Justice Hulse, of Monroe, for grand larceny.

Michael Conners, held by Justice Swezey, of Goshen, for burglary in the third degree.

Augustus McLaren, held for assault.

Richard Emerick, held for grand larceny.

The Care of the Criminal Insane.

The very interesting and instructive paper on "The Care of the Criminal Insane," read by Dr. H. E. Allison, Superintendent of the Matteawan State Hospital, at the meeting of the hospital trustees and superintendents, held at the Matteawan Hospital, Oct. 18th, has been printed in pamphlet form.

Excelsior's Series of Socials.

Invitations have been issued by Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company for its winter series of socials. As in former years they will be held at the truck house. The first one will be held Friday evening, Nov. 23d, and the others on the second Thursday evening of each month.

Organ Recital at Second Presbyterian Church.

FIRE AT STONY FORD.

Barn Burned With All Its Contents—Horses and Cattle Perish in the Flames.

From our Stony Ford Correspondent.

The barn of Ebenezer Bull, Jr., at Stony Ford, was destroyed by fire at an early hour, this morning. The fire was discovered at 3 o'clock, but had gained such headway that it was impossible to save anything.

Three horses, twenty cows and some young stock perished in the flames. There were in the barn besides the live stock about sixty tons of hay, a quantity of feed, wagon, harness and farming implements of various kinds, all of which were destroyed.

The origin of the fire is a mystery as neither Mr. Bull or his hired man had a light in the barn, last night.

Mr. Bull's loss will amount to several thousand dollars. The building was 25x50 feet and a good one, and the insurance was very light.

PUBLIC VOICE.

Information as to the Finances of the Water Board Desired.

EDITORS ARGUS: After reading Mr. Fellows' letter in last night's ARGUS, it is very gratifying news to the taxpayers to know that they are not likely to be called upon to bond our city at present for another $100,000 or $200,000 for an increased water supply. And as it is customary for the Water Commissioners to keep the taxpayers posted in regard to the amount of water in our reservoirs two or three times a year, would it not be a good rule to give the taxpayers a full and comprehensive statement in regard to the financial status, one that can be read and understood by all taxpayers. I would like to hear the views of other taxpayers on this subject.

THE SULLIVAN COUNTY CLUB HOUSE

Mead & Taft's Suit to Recover $5,000 Claimed to Be Due Them for Building It.

Judge Brown, at his chambers in Newburgh, yesterday, heard the case of Mead & Taft, the Cornwall builders, against the Sullivan County Club, to recover $5,000 claimed to be due for building the club house on the mountain, near Wurtsboro. The defense was that plaintiffs had accepted stock of the club in payment of their claim. Mead & Taft admitted the transfer of stock, but claimed that the stock was taken as collateral and that the transfer was not absolute. Several witnesses testified and briefs are to be submitted.

A Queer Election Bet.

A queer election bet is reported from Binghamton. A Republican bet $100 to one cent with a Democrat that Morton would be elected, and the Democrat agreed to give an additional cent for every vote which Morton received in excess of Hill. As Morton's plurality is 155,000 the Democrat ought to pay $1,550, but it would be safe to bet $100 to a cent that he don't pay.

A Surprise Party.

Miss Mabel Lathrop, of Wellsbridge, Oswego county, N. Y., who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James Holoway, corner of Academy and Houston avenues, was given a pleasant surprise, Thursday evening, by about twenty-five friends, who marched into the house without giving notice of their intended visit.

The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing games, listening to music and in disposing of the refreshments served.

One Ballot Too Many In Woodbury.

"Dr. Spriggles" says in the Newburgh Journal, that in canvassing the returns of the town of Woodbury, it was found that there was one ticket more than the number polled. A man was blindfolded and drew out a ballot which proved to be the only one in the whole batch on which the name of candidate Matchett appeared.

Exhibition Pigeon Shoot.

Mr. W. H. McQuoid, after vainly trying to get a match with Middletown's crack pigeon shots, this morning gave an exhibition of his skill on Houston's hill.

Seventeen pigeons were released, twelve of which he killed within the limit of thirty yards rise and eighty yards boundary.

A number of sportsmen witnessed the shooting.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Going to Europe—An Adams Express Office to Be Established Here—The Dairy Maid's Supper—Other Notes.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—Mr. John N. Haneen and Postmaster Robt. J. Hock will sail for Europe, Thursday, Nov. 15th, on the Augusta Victoria, of the Hamburg-American Line. Their tickets were purchased through the steamship company's local agent, H. B. Levy.

—The Adams Express Company will open an office here in about two weeks. Mr. Frank Flynn will be the agent. Packages will be forwarded via the electric road to Middletown, and thence over the Ontario and Western, on which road the Adams Express Company controls the express business. This will give us two express companies and ought to result in cheaper rates.

—The "Dairy Maid's Supper" will be served to a large audience, Monday evening, Nov. 19th, at Music Hall. The cantata will also be repeated at a matinee, Tuesday, at 4 p. m.

—Goshen people will have the "pleasure" of having Uncle Tom's Cabin in town next Wednesday, Nov. 15th, at Music Hall.

—Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Steward and family will return, Monday, to their city home, to spend the winter.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

Social, Personal and Local Items—A Particularly Frank Expression of Disapproval.

(From a Special Correspondent.)

—Miss Voorhees gave a tea at her studio in the Hogarth building, on Main street, this afternoon.

—Mrs. and Miss Cowdry, of Warwick, have been spending a part of the week at the home of Mr. Floyd Reeve, in this village.

—Mrs. Charles H. Winfield has been spending a few days with friends in this village.

—The production of "The Messiah," on the 27th of next month, bids fair to be by far the grandest musical performance ever given in Goshen. It is probable that the chorus will number at least two hundred voices from Newburgh, Middletown and our own village.

—Most thin skinned people have suffered at times from various forms of criticism and are apt to think that the kind under which they are temporarily smarting is the worst variety of all. If we are not mistaken, it is Thackeray who says, "He that hath ears to her, let him stuff them with cotton," and almost everyone has had occasion to feel grateful that a merciful Providence did not locate our ears in our backs, thus saving us from hearing all that is said behind them. Praise to the face may be "open disgrace," but it is much more soothing to the feeling than blame behind the back. A careless, thoughtless remark about a friend is very much like one of those winged seeds that we see on any autumn day floating in the air, the sport of every idle breeze. One never knows where it is going to light or what mischief it is going to do, but only too often there springs up from it in some heart a growth of distrust and hard feeling. Neither is open criticism altogether congenial, for we hate to have our worst suspicions of ourselves realized by means of an impartial person.

We all have reason, however, to be thankful that disapprobation is not expressed in every community in quite the same way that it was lately in Frontier, Michigan, some of the inhabitants of which place have just tarred and feathered the pastor of one of their churches because they "did not like his style," else what a grotesque looking assemblage we should find in the streets of every town. Such a flock of black sheep as that should have a cow-boy to guide them rather than a gentle shepherd. G. H.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost petrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are using this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan 338 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

SONG.

Swallow, foretelling a rainy day,
Skimming the swaths of the new mown hay
Fly high, fly low,
I'd have you know,
Naught care I of tomorrow's weather,
For my love and I will be together,
And when that my love and I do meet—
"Sweet," did you say, little bird? "Sweet sweet!"

Swallow, foretelling a sunny sky
Merrily circling the poplars high,
Fly high, fly low;
I'd have you know,
Or skies be sunny, or day be drear,
Naught care I of the morrow's weather;
My love is coming and will be here;
My love and I will be together,
And when that my love and I do meet—
"Sweet," did you say, little bird? "Sweet sweet!"

LAS' OB DE VARDENS.

In the beautiful valley of the Shenandoah, with no sound to disturb the quiet of the summer day save the murmuring of the pine trees as they whisper to each other some tale, perhaps of far other scenes than these, of days when the peaceful valley was such a scene of human strife that the birds and bees and even the sweet wild roses that thrived there in unmolested possession disappeared to return in after years and find a picture of utter desolation.

It was while sojourning for a short time in the mountains overlooking the Shenandoah valley that I came across one of those living relics. She was only a poor old negro woman, who had been a slave and who, even after a quarter of a century of freedom, had almost failed to realize that she was free. There was nothing particular to recommend her to one's notice or call attention to her forlorn situation. She had been left all alone in the world—in her own words, "the last of the Vardens"—and judging from the grand air with which she announced that fact would have scorned the idea that she needed sympathy or pity as she stood amid the ruins of what had been a grand old southern home before the war, the home of the Vardens.

All that remained of the house, two tumbling chimneys, was overgrown by some kind of vine, which gave a sort of picturesque beauty to the forsaken scene. A little to the left and just in sight of where the house had been was an inclosure, in the center of which stood a tall monument, surrounded by smaller gravestones, marking the last resting place of the Vardens, who seemed to have turned their back upon their earthly possessions and laid their joys all away beneath the shadow of the great monument, leaving but one poor, crooked, feeble remnant of their departed greatness to occupy the rest of the estate and keep their memory green in her faithful old heart.

It was a warm day in June that I stood within the gates of Rocky Mead, as the place was called, and listened to a part of the family history of its former owner from the lips of old Juliette, who invited me to a seat under a large tree, then, seating herself near by, after apologizing for sitting in the presence of a white lady, said: "I'ze powerful glad to see white folks cep'n de common trash wat libs down in de valley. De fus famblies is all dade cep'n de Campbellses. Dey place is nex' to we alls. Our fambly war de hes' in Furginia." As she said this she straightened herself as much as age and rheumatism would permit.

"But," she continued sadly, "dey's all gone—all but me. I libs down at de ole quarters, do da is'n much lef, oney one cabin, dat's mo'n big enuff fo' me, mos' times, but wen I gits de raligy in legs an han's den de work ain' big enuff. But I has to stay an look after de place kase I'ze de las' one lef ob de fambly, an wen I meets ole Marse Richard in de nex' worl he's boun to ax me bout de old place. Fus thing he gwine say, 'Juliette, you allus would be de las' one, but I reckon we's all together now, an we unite in prayer,' jess as he uster ebery evenin. Marse Richard war a mitey good man. Ole miss, she de boss. She uster say nobody eber gwine conker her, an shore enuff nobody nebber did. She done all de conkerin. It war all long o' her dat my Miss Mary war forced to marry Marse Campbell's son, an den all de trubble come.

"My marster hab two sons, Marse Dick an Robert. Dey jine de army one mornin, an Miss Mary tease de life nearly outen me to go wid her down in the valley whar de fightin war gwine on. She say she jis' wanter see der las' ob Dick and Bob. All de time I know she dyin to see Cap'n Hunter kase she dade in lub wid him, an me an Cap'n Hunter's boy, Long Jim, was co'tin too. But we all knowed ole miss don' sot her min on Miss Mary marryin Marse Will Campbell. He was orful rich, but he war ugly as satan—an dat's a fac'.

"Miss Mary, so sweet lookin dat all de young men in lub wid her, an she didn' care for none ob 'em, only Cap'n Hunter, an she say she gwine marry Jack Hunter or nobody. Ole miss say de Hunters didn' b'long to de fust famblies, an ef Cap'n Hunter 'tempted pay any 'tention to ary chile ob her'n she 'posed to interfere. So co'se we das'n' let her know 'at Cap'n Hunter war down dar in de cave under de hill wid Long Jim, waiten for me to fotch him a letter from Miss Mary jess if he didn' know she gwine break her neck almost to see hissef. Cap'n Hunter war de grandes' lookin man I eber sot my eyes on. He eyes fairly dance' when he saw us bofe comin, an he jes' tuk Miss Mary up in he arms an hole on to her an promise never let her go no more.

"But she blush all ober her face, an he say Jim to take de horse down to the stream to cool him off. So we tuk de horse up in de woods back ob de cave an tie him to a tree, whils' me an Jim sot down on de grass. Bimeby we heard a big rumblin soun lek thunder an saw de smoke in de valley an Cap'n Hunter comin runnin o'des us wid Miss Mary lookin like a ghose. Cap'n Hunter kiss her han an squeeze it tight an say, 'Goodby, little sweetheart,' an she say, 'Goodby, Jack.' Den he jump on his horse an rode away down into the noise an smoke. Miss Mary watch him till he all gone. Den I 'minds her dat ef old miss fin us out she gwine mek trouble for us. So we come back to do house. Aunt Maria met us at de do' an says, 'Dey's company in de parlor.' De minister an ole Marse Campbell wid his son an ole miss, dressed up wid her white lace cap on. Ole Marse Richard away at de wah. Miss Mary say she want be by herself, en ef anybody ax for her I'ze say she have a headache 'kase she wouldn' see de Campbellses den. But, honey, ole miss didn' ax me nuthin. She jess walk right in an say, 'Put Miss Mary' bes' dress on her, Juliette.'

"Den she tole Miss Mary somp'n bote ole Marse Campbell gwine tek all de lan an de house kase Marse Richard owe him so much money, an den she an marster have no home in dey ole age, an it break her father's heart ef he eber come back an de place gon' out de fambly, an she say ef she love her father she gwine come right down an get married to Marse Will. Miss Mary lub her father mor'n anything, an ole miss talk an talk, an Miss Mary kepe her eyes on de big diamond ring dat Cap'n Hunter giv' her in de morn'n, wiles de tears rollin down her cheeks, an she ax es dey no other way, an her mother say dat wen she marry Marse Will he gwine mek her present ob de notes wid Marse Richard's name on 'em. Den de Campbellses place be jined to ourn, an it be de biggest 'state in de county. An she tell her how lek her father git shot in de wah an brung home an de isn' no home to come to, so dat settle it. Miss Mary sot orful still for a minute lek she thinkin, an den she say, 'I'ze ready for my father's sake, jess for him.' She wouldn't put on no other dress, but she say wait for me here, Juliette, an she walk down in de parlor, an I went down and peep froo a crack in de do. Miss Mary hol her lef' han behin her, an Marse will put de ring on her right han. She never look up once, an when ole Marse Campbell give her de note wot Marse Richard wrote to him bote de lan she han it to ole miss. Den Miss Mary ax 'em all leave her alone for one hour, an she come up to her room. In co'se I'ze waitin for her. She lock de do' an say, 'Juliette, be quick as you kin and hep me put on dat grey suit ob Brer Bob's.' I ax her wot she gwine do. She say: 'Don' ax any questions. I'ze gotter hurry,' so I hep her dress. We bofe so nervous dat we got de close on backward. She cryin kase she feared de Campbellses would come to fotch her 'fore she got de things on. But dey didn', an when she all drest in Marse Robert's school uniform she look jess like he did de last time he wore 'em. Den she say to me: 'I'ze gwine down dar in de valley, an I'ze nebber comin back no mo'. I wants yo' to tell father dat I sole my han to Will Campbell, wiles my heart an sole already belong to Jack Hunter.'

"Den she put her arms roun my neck an cry lek a baby, an we bofe creept down de back stairs an out froo de kitchen do', an she say goodby to me an tole me go back to de room an wait till her mother come there to git her. The Scarcity.

The millionaire from the east took a meal a la carte in a western restaurant, and when he came to pay his bill he called for the landlord.

"Here, landlord," he exclaimed, "this is too much. I won't pay it."

"What's the matter, sir?" replied the landlord very obsequiously.

"I say the bill is too much. You've got me charged $1 for two eggs. What's that for? Are eggs so scarce?"

"N-n-o, sir," hesitated and stammered the landlord, "but millionaires are."—Detroit Free Press.

Evidently Meant For Commerce.

may read. No woman, if she can read, can fail to know about Pearline. Then, if you're worn out with hard work or find your clothes going to pieces, you've only yourself to blame.

You'll have to choose your own way of washing. You can use soap and the washboard, and tire yourself out, and rub your clothes to tatters.

You can use so-called washing-powders, imitations of Pearline, and have easier work, though they're eating up the clothes. Or you can use Pearline, wash in the easiest way, and be absolutely certain that there isn't the slightest harm.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 425 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to-day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find no one until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. [illegible], Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular [illegible] we are free to confess that the [illegible] has won us to look with [illegible] it."

On Even Terms.

Baron Haussmann, the celebrated French administrator who may almost be said to have made Paris a new city, used to relate the following anecdote by way of illustrating the feeling of many country gentlemen toward the prefects.

One of these gentry entered the prefect's office, having some complaint to make, and proceeded to state his errand in a pretty lofty tone and without taking off his hat. The officer was equal to the occasion.

"Wait a moment," he said, and he rang a bell. A servant answered the summons.

"Bring me my hat," said the prefect.

The hat was brought, the officer put it on and turned to his caller.

"Now," said he, "I will hear you."—Youth's Companion.

The Reason Why.

Mr. G. (an old friend)—Yes, you have a most beautiful parlor here, but to have nothing to sit upon but one chair is a rather original idea, is it not?

Mrs. Z.—When one has marriageable daughters one must have original ideas.—Life.

Troubleby's Comfortable Home.

"You look tired tonight, dear," Mrs. Troubleby said sympathetically.

"Yes. I worked hard and worried harder all day and my head aches," Troubleby said, with a weary sigh.

"Too bad," Mrs. Troubleby purred softly. "By the way, the ice bill came today. It's $10 and you must see them about it right away. There must be some mistake. The janitor says the coal is out too. We bought a ton only a few weeks ago, and I believe you ought to watch that janitor, George. He must be using coal out of our bin or giving it to some other tenant. It does seem that I cannot keep Janet another day. She was impertinent to me again today and she's so slow about her work and so lazy she nearly drives me mad. How's your head, dear? Does it still ache?"

"Feels a little worse," Troubleby replied, clutching his brow.

"I'm afraid you're smoking too much again. You must stop it, dear, or you'll break down. Now, how much do you smoke? You keep at it all day long, don't you, George?"

"No. I only smoked two cigars today," Troubleby said wearily. "Cæsar's ghost! How my head aches!"

"Too bad, dear. What would you do about Janet if you were I? She is really quite unbearable. I think you would better advertise for a new girl tomorrow or run around to the employment bureau on your way to the office. But perhaps if you were to talk to Janet and show her that we will not stand any more of her nonsense she might turn over a new leaf and be a much better girl. What do you think, dear?"

"I can't think at all, dear. My head aches to split," Troubleby replied, pacing up and down the room.

"Poor dear, are you sure you only smoked two cigars? Before I forget it be sure and leave a quarter for the janitor for putting in the coal. You're not going off already to that horrid old club, are you, dear? I hardly see you any more at—"

"Fresh air'll help my head, and then, you know, I want to smoke."

"Too bad you can't smoke here, but it makes the house smell so, and if there's anything abominable it's tobacco smoke in the curtains. That horrid Janet, I can hardly— Now, dear, please don't stay long and be careful about smoking too"—

But Troubleby had already closed the door.

The next day Mrs. Troubleby told Mrs. Brightface that she couldn't understand why men hurried away to the club every night when they had such comfortable homes.—Truth.

A Railway Clerk's Zoology.

An amusing story is told of the late Frank Buckland. It is said that he rarely wore a greatcoat, and when he did so it was more for the value of the additional pockets it contained than for warmth.

On one occasion he had been to France and was returning via Southampton with an overcoat stuffed with natural history specimens of all sorts dead and alive. Among them was a monkey, which was domiciled in a large inside breast pocket. As Buckland was taking his ticket Jocko thrust up his head and attracted the attention of the booking clerk, who immediately said, "You must take a ticket for that dog if it's going with you."

"Dog?" said Buckland. "It's no dog. It's a monkey."

"It's a dog," replied the clerk.

"It's a monkey," retorted Buckland, and he proceeded to show the whole animal, but without convincing the clerk, who insisted on 5 shillings for the dog ticket to London.

Plunging his hand into another pocket and producing a tortoise, Buckland said, "Perhaps you'll call this a dog too?"

"No," said the clerk, "we make no charge for them. They're insects."—Tit-Bits.

The Real Danger.

One of Detroit's budding hunters, a youth of 22 summers, went the other day to a veteran in that line to borrow his gun and dog for a day's outing.

"I'm sorry," said the veteran, with a very palpable note of doubt and fear in his voice, "but I can't let you have them."

"Why not?" asked the young hunter, bridling at the imputation on his skill.

"Because I'm afraid something might happen."

This made the young man real mad.

"You talk," he said, "as if you were afraid I might shoot myself."

"No," protested the veteran earnestly, "it isn't that. What I'm afraid of is that you might shoot the dog." And the young hunter turned his back on the veteran in a towering rage.—Detroit Free Press.

A Sedative.

A nervous little woman on entering a railway carriage caught sight of a passenger with a gun.

"Your gun isn't loaded, I hope, sir?"

Sportsman (facetiously)—On the contrary, madam, but that makes no matter. I will insert a cork, and there will be no danger.

The lady was immediately pacified.—Ephemere Comique.

The thumb is an unfailing index of character. The Square Type indicates a strong will, great energy and firmness. Closely allied is the Spatulated Type, the thumb of those of advanced ideas and business ability. Both of these types belong to the best man or woman and Demorest's Family Magazine prepares especially for such persons a whole volume of new ideas condensed in a small space so that the record of the whole world's work for a month may be read in half an hour. The Conical Type indicates refinement, culture and a love of music, poetry and fiction. A person with this type of thumb will thoroughly enjoy the literary attraction of Demorest's Magazine. The Artistic Type indicates a love of beauty and art, which will find rare pleasure in the magnificent oil-picture of roses 16¼ x 24 inches, reproduced from the original painting by De Longpré, the most celebrated of living flower painters, which will be given to every subscriber to Demorest's Magazine for 1895. The cost of this superb work of art was $350 00, and the reproduction cannot be distinguished from the original. Besides this an exquisite oil or water-color picture is published in each number of the Magazine, and the articles are so profusely and superbly illustrated that the Magazine is, in reality, a portfolio of art works of the highest order. The Philosophic Type is the thumb of the thinker and inventor of ideas, who will be deeply interested in the developments monthly in Demorest's Magazine, in every one of its numerous departments, which cover the entire artistic and scientific field, chronicling every fact, fancy and fad of the day. Demorest's is simply a perfect Family Magazine and was long ago crowned Queen of the Monthlies. Send in your subscription; it will cost only $2 00 and you will have a dozen Magazines in one. Address W. Jennings Demorest, Publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York. Though not a fashion magazine its perfect fashion pages and its articles on family and domestic matters will be of superlative interest to those possessing the Feminine Type of Thumb which indicates in its small size, slenderness, soft nail, and smooth, rounded tip those traits which belong essentially to the gentler sex, every one of whom should subscribe to Demorest's Magazine. If you are unacquainted with its merits send for a specimen copy (free) and you will admit that seeing these THUMBS has put you in the way of saving money by finding in one Magazine everything to satisfy the literary wants of the whole family.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost petrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, [illegible] Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, discovered by an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

SONG.

Swallow, foretelling a rainy day,
Skimming the swaths of the new mown hay
Fly high, fly low,
I'd have you know.
Naught care I of tomorrow's weather,
For my love and I will be together,
And when that my love and I do meet—
"Sweet," did you say, little bird? "Sweet sweet"

Swallow, foretelling a sunny sky
Merrily circling the poplars high,
Fly high, fly low,
I'd have you know,
Or skies be sunny, or day be drear,
Naught care I of the morrow's weather;
My love is coming and will be here,
My love and I will be together,
And when that my love and I do meet—
"Sweet," did you say, little bird? "Sweet sweet!"

—New York Tribune

LAS' OB DE VARDENS.

In the beautiful valley of the Shenandoah, with no sound to disturb the quiet of the summer day save the murmuring of the pine trees as they whisper to each other some tale, perhaps of far other scenes than these, of days when the peaceful valley was such a scene of human strife that the birds and bees and even the sweet wild roses that thrived there in unmolested possession disappeared to return in after years and find a picture of utter desolation.

It was while sojourning for a short time in the mountains overlooking the Shenandoah valley that I came across one of those living relics. She was only a poor old negro woman, who had been a slave and who, even after a quarter of a century of freedom, had almost failed to realize that she was free. There was nothing particular to recommend her to one's notice or call attention to her forlorn situation. She had been left all alone in the world—in her own words, "the last of the Vardens"—and judging from the grand air with which she announced that fact would have scorned the idea that she needed sympathy or pity as she stood amid the ruins of what had been a grand old southern home before the war, the home of the Vardens.

All that remained of the house, two tumbling chimneys, was overgrown by some kind of vine, which gave a sort of picturesque beauty to the forsaken scene. A little to the left and just in sight of where the house had been was an inclosure, in the center of which stood a tall monument, surrounded by smaller gravestones, marking the last resting place of the Vardens, who seemed to have turned their back upon their earthly possessions and laid their joys all away beneath the shadow of the great monument, leaving but one poor, crooked, feeble remnant of their departed greatness to occupy the rest of the estate and keep their memory green in her faithful old heart.

It was a warm day in June that I stood within the gates of Rocky Mead, as the place was called, and listened to a part of the family history of its former owner from the lips of old Juliette, who invited me to a seat under a large tree then, seating herself near by, after apologizing for sitting in the presence of a white lady, said "I'ze powerful glad to see white folks cep'n de common trash wat libs down in de valley. De fus famblies is all dade cep'n de Campbellses. Dey place is nex' to we alls. Our fambly war de bes' in Verginny." As she said this she straightened herself as much as age and rheumatism would permit.

"But," she continued sadly, "dey's all gone—all but me. I libs down at de ole quarters, do dar is'n much lef, oney one cabin, dat's mo n big enuff fo' me, mos' times, but wen I gits de misery in legs an han's den de work ain' big enuff. But I has to stay an look after de place kase I'ze de las' one lef ob de fambly, an wen I meets ole Marse Richard in de nex' worl he's boun to ax me bout de old place. Fus thing he gwine say, 'Juliette, you allus would be de las' one, but I reckon we's all together now, an we unite in prayer,' jess as he uster ebery evenin. Marse Richard war a mitey good man. Ole miss, she de boss. She uster say nobody eber gwine conker her, an shore enuff nobody nebber did. She done all de conkerin. It war all long o' her dat my Miss Mary war forced to marry Marse Campbell's son, an den all de trubble come.

"My marster hab two sons, Marse Dick an Robert. Dey jine de army one mornin, an Miss Mary tease de life nearly outen me to go wid her down in the valley whar de fightin war gwine on. She say she jis' wanter see der las' ob Dick and Bob. All de time I know she dyin to see Cap'n Hunter kase she dade in lub wid him, an me an Cap'n Hunter's boy, Long Jim, was co'tin too. But we all knowed ole miss don' sot her min on Miss Mary marryin Marse Will Campbell. He was orful rich, but he war ugly as satan—an dat's a fac'.

"Miss Mary, so sweet lookin dat all de young men in lub wid her, an she didn' care for none ob 'em, only Cap'n Hunter, an she say she gwine marry Jack Hunter or nobody. Ole miss say de Hunters didn' b'long to de fust famblies, an ef Cap'n Hunter 'tempted pay any 'tention to any chile ob her'n she 'posed to interfere. So co'se we das'n' let her know 'at Cap'n Hunter war down dar in de cave under de hill wid Long Jim, waiten for me to fotch him a letter from Miss Mary jess if he didn' know she gwine break her neck almost to see hisself. Cap'n Hunter war de grandes' lookin man I eber sot my eyes on. He eyes fairly dance' when he saw us bofe comin, an he jes' tuk Miss Mary up in he arms an hole on to her an promise never let her go no more.

"But she blush all ober her face, an he say Jim to take de horse down to the stream to cool him off. So we tuk de horse up in de woods back ob de cave an tie him to a tree, whils' me an Jim sot down on de grass. Bimeby we heard a big rumblin soun lek thunder an saw de smoke in de valley an Cap'n Hunter comin runnin to des us wid Miss Mary lookin like a ghose. Cap'n Hunter kiss her ha[n] an squeeze it tight an say, 'Good by, little sweetheart,' an she say, 'Good by, Jack.' Den he jump on his horse an rode away down into the noise an smoke. Miss Mary watch him till he all gone. Den I 'minds her dat ef ole miss fin us out she gwine mek trouble for us. So we come back to de house. Aunt Maria met us at de do' an says, 'Dey's company in de parlor.' De minister an ole Marse Campbell wid his son an ole miss, dressed up wid her white lace cap on. Ole Marse Richard away at de wah. Miss Mary say she want be by herself, en ef anybody ax for her I'ze say she have a headache 'kase she wouldn' see de Campbellses den. But, honey, ole miss didn' ax me nuthin. She jess walk right in an say, 'Put Miss Mary' bes' dress on her, Juliette.'

"Den she tole Miss Mary somp'n bote ole Marse Campbell gwine tek all de lan an de house kase Marse Richard owe him so much money, an den she an marster have no home in dey ole age, an it break her father's heart ef he eber come back an de place gon' out de fambly, an she say ef she love her father she gwine come right down an get married to Marse Will. Miss Mary lub her father mor'n anything, an ole miss talk an talk, an Miss Mary kepe her eyes on de big diamond ring dat Cap'n Hunter giv' her in de morn'n, wiles de tears rollin down her cheeks, an she ax es dey no other way, an her mother say dat wen she marry Marse Will he gwine mek her present ob de notes wid Marse Richard's name on 'em. Den de Campbellses place be jined to ourn, an it be de biggest 'state in de county. An she tell her how lek her father git shot in de wah an brung home an de isn no home to come to, so dat settle it. Miss Mary set orful still for a minute lek she thinkin, an den she say, 'I'ze ready for my father's sake, jess for him.' She wouldn't put on no other dress, but she say wait for me here, Juliette, an she walk down in de parlor, an I went down and peep froo a crack in de do. Miss Mary hol her lef' han behin her, an Marse will put de ring on her right han. She never look up once, an when ole Marse Campbell give her de note wot Marse Richard wrote to him bote de lan she han it to ole miss. Den Miss Mary ax 'em all leave her alone for one hour, an she come up to her room. In co'se I'ze waitin for her. She lock de do' an say, 'Juliette, be quick as you kin and hep me put on dat grey suit ob Brer Bob's.' I ax her wot she gwine do. She say: 'Don' ax any questions. I'ze gotter hurry,' so I hep her dress. We bofe so nervous dat we got de close on backward. She cryin kase she feared de Campbellses would come to fotch her 'fore she got de thing-on. But dey didn', an when she al' drest in Marse Robert's school unionform she look jess like he did de last time he wore 'em. Den she say to me: 'I'ze gwine down dar in de valley, an I ze nebber comin back no mo'. I wants yo to tell father dat I sole my han to Will Campbell, wiles my heart an sole al ready belong to Jack Hunter.'

"Den she put her arms roun my neck an cry lek a baby, an we bofe creept down de back stairs an out froo de kitchen do', an she say goodby to me an tole me go back to de room an wait till her mother come there to git her. I'ze so skeart I couldn't think. Presently I hear ole miss callin, 'Miss Mary, Mary come down.' I jess keep still as de grave till ole miss open de do' an says, 'Whar Miss Mary?' Las' I said, I dunno.' Den she skeart de trufe outen me but I mix it all up, so dey couldn't understan. Fus' I say she gone up de hill. Wen dey say ef she tuk de road to de right han or de lef', I say she went down to'des de river, an all de time Miss Mary gainin on 'em. Wiles we all talkin one ob de Miller boys come in an say dat ole marse done been killed. Ole miss turn white as a sheet an pear like she gwine to fall, an I so lonesome dat I sot down in de do' an cried.

"Jess as de sun war settin I look down de road an see Long Jim runnin to des de house. I ax him ef he got eny news ob my Miss Mary, an he say Cap'n Hunter shot right froo de bress, an jess as he fall Miss Mary run, cryin to him dat she his little sweetheart, an beg him to doan't die. The Scarcity.

The millionaire from the east took a meal a la carte in a western restaurant, and when he came to pay his bill he called for the landlord.

"Here, landlord," he exclaimed, "this is too much. I won't pay it."

"What's the matter, sir?" replied the landlord very obsequiously.

"I say the bill is too much. You've got me charged $1 for two eggs. What's that for? Are eggs so scarce?"

"N-n-o, sir," hesitated and stammered the landlord, "but millionaires are."—Detroit Free Press.

"Vat?" shouted Mr. Achheimer.

"I say it is secondhand. Secondhand close is them that has been wore, ain't they? An didn't I have to wear the suit when I tried it on?"

"Vat a pity," said Mr. Achheimer in admiration. "Vat a pity it vas dot you vas prought up to pe a farmer. You got a pizness head dot vas simbly owit of sight."—Indianapolis Journal.

She who Runs

may read. No woman, if she can read, can fail to know about Pearline. Then, if you're worn out with hard work or find your clothes going to pieces, you've only yourself to blame.

You'll have to choose your own way of washing. You can use soap and the washboard, and tire yourself out, and rub your clothes to tatters.

You can use so-called washing-powders, imitations of Pearline, and have easier work, though they're eating up the clothes. Or you can use Pearline, wash in the easiest way, and be absolutely certain that there isn't the slightest harm.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 425 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established, still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful-to-day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted, here was what I needed in various ways, here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

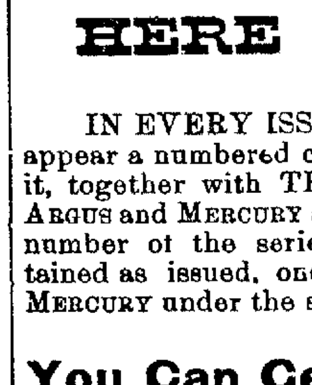

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other [illegible] agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. [illegible], Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular [illegible] are free to confess that the [illegible] has won us to look with [illegible]"

On Even Terms.

Baron Haussmann, the celebrated French administrator who may almost be said to have made Paris a new city, used to relate the following anecdote by way of illustrating the feeling of many country gentlemen toward the prefects.

One of these gentry entered the prefect's office, having some complaint to make, and proceeded to state his errand in a pretty lofty tone and without taking off his hat. The officer was equal to the occasion.

"Wait a moment," he said, and he rang a bell. A servant answered the summons.

"Bring me my hat," said the prefect.

The hat was brought, the officer put it on and turned to his caller.

"Now," said he, "I will hear you."—Youth's Companion.

The Reason Why.

Mr. G. (an old friend)—Yes, you have a most beautiful parlor here, but to have nothing to sit upon but one chair is a rather original idea, is it not?

Mrs. Z.—When one has marriageable daughters one must have original ideas.—Truth.

Troubleby's Comfortable Home.

"You look tired tonight, dear," Mrs. Troubleby said sympathetically.

"Yes. I worked hard and worried harder all day and my head aches," Troubleby said, with a weary sigh.

"Too bad," Mrs. Troubleby purred softly. "By the way, the [illegible] came today. It's $10 and you must see them about it right away. There must be some mistake. The janitor says the coal is out too. We bought a ton only a few weeks ago, and I believe you ought to watch that janitor George. He must be using coal out of our bin or giving it to some other tenant. It does seem that I cannot keep Janet another day. She was impertinent to me again today, and she's so slow about her work and so lazy she nearly drives me mad. How's your head, dear? Does it still ache?"

"Feels a little worse," Troubleby replied, clutching his brow.

"I'm afraid you're smoking too much again. You must stop it, dear, or you'll break down. Now how much do you smoke? You keep at it all day long, don't you, George?"

"No. I only smoked two cigars today," Troubleby said wearily. "Cæsar's ghost! How my head aches!"

"Too bad, dear. What would you do about Janet if you were I? She is really quite unbearable. I think you would better advertise for a new girl tomorrow or run around to the employment bureau on your way to the office. But perhaps if you were to talk to Janet and show her that we will not stand any more of her nonsense she might turn over a new leaf and be a much better girl. What do you think, dear?"

"I can't think at all, dear. My head aches to split," Troubleby replied, pacing up and down the room.

"Poor dear, are you sure you only smoked two cigars? Before I forget it be sure and leave a quarter for the janitor for putting in the coal. You're not going off already to that horrid old club, are you, dear? I hardly see you any more at—"

"Fresh air'll help my head, and then you know, I want to smoke."

"Too bad you can't smoke here, but it makes the house smell so, and if there's anything abominable it's tobacco smoke in the curtains. That horrid Janet, I can hardly— Now, dear, please don't stay long and be careful about smoking too—"

But Troubleby had already closed the door.

The next day Mrs. Troubleby told Mrs. Brightface that she couldn't understand why men hurried away to the club every night when they had such comfortable homes.—Truth.

A Railway Clerk's Zoology.

An amusing story is told of the late Frank Buckland. It is said that he rarely wore a greatcoat, and when he did so it was more for the value of the additional pockets it contained than for warmth.

On one occasion he had been to France and was returning via Southampton with an overcoat stuffed with natural history specimens of all sorts dead and alive. Among them was a monkey, which was domiciled in a large inside breast pocket. As Buckland was taking his ticket Jocko thrust up his head and attracted the attention of the booking clerk, who immediately said, "You must take a ticket for that dog if it's going with you."

"Dog?" said Buckland. "It's no dog. It's a monkey."

"It's a dog," replied the clerk.

"It's a monkey," retorted Buckland, and he proceeded to show the whole animal, but without convincing the clerk, who insisted on 5 shillings for the dog ticket to London.

Plunging his hand into another pocket and producing a tortoise, Buckland said, "Perhaps you'll call this a dog too?"

"No," said the clerk, "we make no charge for them. They're insects."—Tit-Bits.

The Real Danger.

One of Detroit's budding hunters, a youth of 22 summers, went the other day to a veteran in that line to borrow his gun and dog for a day's outing.

"I'm sorry," said the veteran, with a very palpable note of doubt and fear in his voice, "but I can't let you have them."

"Why not?" asked the young hunter, bridling at the imputation on his skill.

"Because I'm afraid something might happen."

This made the young man real mad.

"You talk," he said, "as if you were afraid I might shoot myself."

"No," protested the veteran earnestly, "it isn't that. What I'm afraid of is that you might shoot the dog." And the young hunter turned his back on the veteran in a towering rage.—Detroit Free Press.

A Sedative.

A nervous little woman on entering a railway carriage caught sight of a passenger with a gun.

"Your gun isn't loaded, I hope, sir?"

Sportsman (facetiously)—On the contrary, madam, but that makes no matter. I will insert a cork, and there will be no danger.

The lady was immediately pacified.—Ephemere Comique.

WHAT YOUR THUMB TELLS.

Square Type.

The thumb is an unfailing index of character. The Square Type indicates a strong will, great energy and firmness. Closely allied is the Spatulated Type, the thumb of those of advanced ideas and business ability. Both of these types belong to the busy man or woman, and Demorest's Family Magazine prepares especially for such persons a whole volume of new ideas, condensed in a small space, so that the record of the whole world's work for a month may be read in half an hour. The Conical Type indicates refinement, culture, and a love of music, poetry and fiction. A person with this type of thumb will thoroughly enjoy the literary attractions of Demorest's Magazine. The Artistic Type indicates a love of beauty and art, which will find rare pleasure in the magnificent oil picture of roses, 16½ x 24 inches, reproduced from the original painting by De Longpre, the most celebrated of living flower painters, which will be given to every subscriber to Demorest's Magazine for 1895. The cost of this superb work of art was $350.00, and the reproduction cannot be distinguished from the original. Besides this an exquisite oil or water-color picture is published in each number of the Magazine, and the articles are so profusely and superbly illustrated that the Magazine is, in reality, a portfolio of art works of the highest order. The Philosophic Type is the thumb of the thinker and inventor of ideas, who will be deeply interested in those developed monthly in Demorest's Magazine, in every one of its numerous departments, which cover the entire artistic and scientific field, chronicling every fact, fancy and fad of the day. Demorest's is simply a perfect Family Magazine, and was long ago crowned Queen of the Monthlies. Send in your subscription; it will cost only $2.00, and you will have a dozen Magazines in one. Address W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, Publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York. Though not a fashion magazine its perfect fashion pages and its articles on family and domestic matters will be of superlative interest to those possessing the Feminine Type of Thumb, which indicates in its small size, slenderness, soft nail and smooth, rounded tip those traits which belong essentially to the gentler sex, every one of whom should subscribe to Demorest's Magazine. If you are unacquainted with its merits, send for a specimen copy (free), and you will admit that seeing these THUMBS has put you in the way of saving money by finding in one magazine everything to satisfy the literary wants of the whole family.

PROF. NIEL,

government chemist, writes: I have carefully analyzed your "Royal Ruby Port Wine," bought by me in the open market, and certify that I found the same absolutely pure and well aged. This wine is especially recommended for its health-restoring and building up properties; it strengthens the weak and restores lost vitality; particularly adapted for convalescents, the aged, nursing mothers and those reduced and weakened by over-work and worry. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby"; $1 per quart bottles, pints 60 cts. Sold by

A WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Perished in the Flames While Trying to Save $50 from Her Burning Home.

About 5 o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, of Robertsonville, near Liberty, Sullivan county, were awakened by the crash of a falling chimney in their farm house. A hurried investigation showed Mr Lewis that his house was on fire.

The family quickly left the burning building and were in a place of safety, when Mr. Lewis remembered that in a closet near the burning chimney he had a roll of bills amounting to $50. He told his wife to take the children and go to the house of a neighbor, and said that he would get an axe from the barn and chop through the siding of the house in order to get at the money. This he did, and when the buildings had been completely destroyed he went to the neighbor's house to see his family.

Mrs. Lewis was not there nor had she been seen. She was not found at any of the neighboring houses, and a search of the suins of the burned dwelling disclosed her charred remains.

It is thought she went back into the house when her husband went to the barn for the axe, and was overcome by smoke.

THE ELECTRIC ROAD.

The Track to Be Laid Through the Rock Cut, To-day—Cars Cannot Run Before Thanksgiving.

It is expected that the track of the Middlerown-Goshen Traction Company's Goshen line will be laid through the rock cut on the Owen farm, this afternoon, and the rails from the Middletown and Goshen ends of the road connected. When this is done the construction car will be used in filling in and ballasting the track east of the cut and this work will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

There is a great deal of work to be done along the line and in the village of Goshen, and it is not likely that it can be opened for business before Thanksgiving.

The turnout on the Owen farm will be completed, to-day. There will be another turnout at the Holbert farm, it having been planned to have them about a mile apart.

LEW DOCKSTADER'S MINSTRELS.

May Be Seen at the Casino, This Evening.

There is probably no comedian whose annual visit causes more genuine, hearty, joyous laughter than Lew Dockstader. Always awake to the idioms of the day and constantly seizing upon the current events to turn them into laughter in a most ludicrous manner.

Lew Dockstader has surrounded himself with the brightest members of the minstrel profession and the consequence is an entertainment without a flaw, a performance without a blemish. Lew has several humorous songs, notably "What will the congregation say?" 'On the other side," "Installments," "The actor up to date," "That little word if." "That tired feeling."

This is a minstrel show, pure and simple Laughter reigns from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Newest of songs are introduced and the comedians are bubbling over with merriment. It is the grandest show Dockstader has ever offered to his friends—the American public.

To be presented at the Casino, this evening.

PORT JERVIS'S SMALL POX EPIDEMIC

All Danger Over and Patients to Be Discharged from the Hospital.

Port Jervis's small pox patients are all about well and will be discharged from the hospital in a few days. It will be necessary, however, to first procure clothing for them. Their own clothing was burned when they entered the hospital and as all are in destitute circumstances they must depend upon charity for a new outfit. The village papers have made an appeal in their behalf.

May Run a Milk Train on the Honesdale Branch,

The Erie is considering the expediency of running a milk train on its Honesdale branch. Mr. Zinn, the milk agent of the Erie, has been looking over the ground with a view to learning the number of cows owned along the branch He was in Honesdale, Wednesday, and talked with farmers and will return next week and canvass among farmers to ascertain how many will ship milk.

A Deer Hunting Expedition

Wm. Steele, of 59 Cottage street, and John Lorentz with a party of sporting men from New York and Paterson, have gone to Sullivan county for a week's hunt. Mr. Steele's friends are expecting to have a fine game supper as he always returns from Sullivan with a bag full of game and treats them all to a grand supper.

Recorder's Court

—Officers Durham and Carey were summoned to Fulton street, about 5 o'clock last evening, to take care of a colored woman who was drunk, and who had "cleaned house" in Cox's meat market. After considerable difficulty the woman was taken to the lockup. The Recorder fined her $5, which she paid.

WOMEN ALWAYS TIRED.

Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher says She Has Known

But Half a Dozen Women Who Were Thoroughly Well.

The Routine of Domestic Tasks Overdrains Their Nervous Force.

"Among all my friends—and the number of my acquaintances has necessarily been rather large," says Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, "I can recall but half a dozen thoroughly well women."

So many, in order to obtain the reputation of being good housewives, work from morning till night, cooking, sweeping and over-hauling.

"What would the house look like," they ask, "if I were not constantly looking after it?"

It would certainly look a good deal more homelike if the wife and the mother kept her health and high spirits instead of growing old and careworn from the struggle with dust and the neglect of their tired, aching nerves, and pale watery blood that daily becomes more and more badly nourished.

It is not the healthy weariness of muscle and brain, so easily forgotten after a good night's sleep; but it is the weariness that remains till morning, and follows one through the day, that should cause anxiety and a desire for prompt relief.

When the nerves and the blood have thus become so badly nourished and the strength thus reduced, food—food appropriate for building up the nervous tissue—and rest, are the plain and simple means, in fact the only means of restoring vigor and health. All the material so urgently needed by the million of exhausted nerve cells and by the thin, depleted blood are found in that remarkable in vigorator, that food for the brain and nerves, Paine's celery compound. It fills the nervous and muscular tissues all over the body with the means of rapid growth, the blood gains new red corpuscles and grows ruddy and capable of thoroughly feeding the body. The strength returns, and headaches, dyspepsia, neuralgia and nervous debility disappear when the tone of the system has been thus raised and the body abundantly supplied with fresh, life giving blood.

The very first week in which this perfect nerve food, Paine's celery compound, is conscientiously employed it will declare its tonic effect by the feeling of returning strength a marked increase in the appetite, freedom from pain and depression.

Paine's celery compound cures radically and permanently rheumatism, heart weakness, diseases of the liver and the kidneys, and encourages the excretory organs to expel what-ever impure humors there may be in the blood. This is evident by the healthier, clearer condition of the skin that physicians say invariably follows when they prescribe Paine's celery compound, as they so commonly do where the body needs building up and when recovery is slow after acute diseases.

Here is the experience of Mrs. E. L Wing of Putney, Vt., told in her own words.

"I had been afflicted with rheumatism and neuralgia for many years. In a year and a half I have taken eight bottles of Paine's celery compound and have not been so free from these troubles in 1 years as I am now. I advise all who are afflicted in any way with rheumatism or neuralgia to use Paine's celery compound.

"For the nerves and tired feelings, I think it is the best dose of ambition that I have ever found. Before I had taken one bottle I felt almost like another person. Other medicines have given me only temporary relief. But the compound has done me more permanent good than the doctors or any other medicine, and I can hardly feel grateful enough for the benefit that I have derived from its use."

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Everybody is acquainted with the story of Uncle Tom's Cabin. This play always pleases the children and the grown people as well. Daisie Markoe Co. will present the play at the Casino, next Tuesday night.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM EXHIBITION

Successful in Spite of the Stormy Weather—Closed with a Conundrum Supper.

The Chrysanthemum Exhibition at the First Congregational Church, closed, last evening. The attendance was quite large and considering the unpleasant weather ever since the opening, the exhibitson was even more successful than its promoters anticipated, the gross receipts being about $225.

The conundrum supper, last evening, furnished much amusement. Printed menus were placed at each plate and guests were required to make their orders from it. People had not the slightest idea of what they had ordered until it was set before them, and often they received what they least expected or deserved.

The following is the menu with the real names of the various articles:

Once a Church, Now a Club House.

The old Baptist Church, in Port Jervis, has been converted into a family club house. It is intended for the use of men, women and children, and it is proposed to conduct it so that no man need hesitate to take his wife and children there.

The basement is fitted up for a kitchen, dining rooms and bowling alley; on the second floor are a reception hall, ladies' parlor, gentlemen's parlor and music room. In the latter a stage is erected, which is visible from all the rooms. The whole of the third floor is converted into a dancing hall.

Suits and Overcoats at $5.00!

These are garments well worth $7.50, but being our own manufacture, we save the profit to the consumer, which the retailers must pay to the manufacturer.

They are new goods, stylishly cut and well made, not like some other dealers offer—Overcoats carried over for years back, that are as short as a sack coat is now cut.

Don't buy old style Overcoats when you can buy the correct style for less money in better quality.

Manufacturing all our own goods, we save you $3 on every $10. Buy of the maker!
